Program Policies

A) Admission criteria

1. The exchange program is for 2021-2022 academic year matriculation. If a student is unable to matriculate on time, his/her nomination will be immediately cancelled and it cannot be reserved.
2. Nomination only represents that the student has been recommended by the Department for the exchange program. The student must still apply to the host institution. If the student is unable to pass the host institution selection process or fail to obtain a student visa, then his/her nomination will be cancelled. The Department bears no obligation or responsibility to advocate for changing a student's application or help with obtaining a visa.
3. No requests for changing of host institution will be considered. If the campus or exchange term approved by the host institution is not what the student expected, then the student needs to consider whether or not to accept the nomination. No requests for a change of campus or academic term will be accepted.
4. When applying to the host institution, students must use the same identity that they used to apply for nomination. Undergraduates who are offered admission to an NTU graduate school after being nominated, may not request to study abroad as a graduate student. Students who apply as a master's degree student may only study abroad as a master's degree student.
5. Should any of application material or eligibility requirements change at the request of the host institution, students must accept the changes and not object.
6. Should the host institution request to modify the content of the agreement, the Department may consult with the nominated students regarding the modifications to the program contents.
7. Students may study abroad for a maximum of one year.
8. Exchange students study abroad as non-degree students, and therefore should not request a degree from the host institution.
9. Exchange students (including students extending studies) approved for study abroad must pay full NTU tuition and fees for the study abroad period. Upon accepting the choice of host university, students must also pay a non-refundable Program Management Fee of NT$1,000 per exchange semester to the Department. Outstanding students with financial difficulties may apply for fee exemption according to the regulations.
10. According to school regulations, students who have fulfilled graduation requirements and not have exceeded the degree time limit prior to studying abroad must apply as an exchange student to extend the degree time limit. The degree time limit extension start and end dates must be the same as the study abroad dates. In other words, students who have fulfilled graduation requirements in either the first or second semester, may only apply to study abroad for the subsequent semester, not a semester with a gap in between.
11. In addition to purchasing travel insurance, students should purchase sufficient insurance (including medical, accident, and overseas emergency assistance) prior to leaving Taiwan. If the host institution provides insurance, then students may choose to purchase it upon arrival in the host country. If a student does not purchase insurance, the Department reserves the right to void the student's nomination.

12. Students are responsible for their own housing, visa, air tickets, transportation to and from the airport, course selection, academic transcript, credit transfer, insurance and other such personal matters.
13. Should an international student receiving the Taiwan Scholarship want to study abroad as an exchange student, the scholarship would be cancelled according to the Taiwan Scholarship stipulations, and the remaining scholarship will not be retained or extended.
14. Students who apply for graduation or leave absence after being nominated and before the completion of the exchange program will have their exchange student status voided. Students can complete graduation or leave of absence procedures only after receiving approval from the Department. If a student has valid reasons or unavoidable circumstances, the matter will be dealt with accordingly.
15. Students of conscription age according to the law must apply for permission to leave the country and return on time to Taiwan upon completing the exchange period, and shall not stay abroad. If found to be in violation, the student must assume all legal responsibilities and accept NTU disciplinary action.
16. If a student has valid reasons or unavoidable circumstances and wishes to end the program early, he/she needs approval from both institutions and must not end the program and return to Taiwan on his/her own.
17. Upon completing the program, students must return to the Department to continue their studies or complete graduation procedures and must not extend the exchange period without permission. If found to be in violation, the student must assume all legal responsibilities and accept NTU disciplinary action.
18. In the occurrence of a force majeure event or circumstances, not limited to natural disaster, war, strike, riot, epidemic, etc. in which the Department could not have prevented or is not responsible for, resulting in cancellation or a delay in the exchange, the Department reserves the right to crisis management.

B) Scholarships

Scholarship opportunities might be available depending on the Department budget.

C) Accommodation/housing

1) NTU dormitories

- (1) Before leaving Taiwan, students must apply for dormitory reservation or check-out. Students shall not apply for housing in the NTU dormitories for the same time period as their time studying abroad. If a student is found to be in violation of this rule, the matter will be dealt with according to the Student Housing Service Division regulations. Dormitory reservation is unavailable to students extending their studies.
- (2) After dormitory reservation, students will not need to pay NTU dormitory fees for the duration of their exchange, and will not need to participate in the housing lottery upon returning to Taiwan.
- (3) Dormitory reservation only reserves the right of the student to live in the dormitories after returning to Taiwan. No requests for reserving the original dormitory or bed space will be considered.

2) Host institution dormitories

- (1) This Program does not guarantee the availability of on-campus housing, and the host institution is not responsible for guaranteeing on-campus housing.
- (2) Students must apply for dormitory housing on their own. If there are no dormitories available, then students must look for off-campus housing on their own. The Department is not responsible for helping students advocate for a dormitory space.

D) Course selection, course credit, and grades

1. In addition to meeting the course selection and course credit requirements of the host institution and country, students must take and complete minimum two courses or courses bearing six credits on NTU system. At least half of the abovementioned courses should be in the engineering area. Under special circumstances, other arrangements may be made with chairman approval before or during study period at host institution.
2. It is not guaranteed that all credits earned abroad will transfer back as NTU credits. If there is a discrepancy between the two institutions' credit calculations that results in the student receiving only partial credit, the Department is not obligated to provide proof of study abroad credit or advocate on the student's behalf. If the credit transfer discrepancy results in the student being unable to graduate as scheduled, the student shall bear all the consequences.
3. Undergraduate students who wish to transfer study abroad credits and graduate upon returning to Taiwan must complete the credit transfer procedures and be listed in the graduating class rankings by the first Friday of the first week of each semester of the academic year.
4. Matters not covered here shall be dealt with according to the policies of the Office of Academic Affairs.

E) Exchange student responsibilities and obligations

1. Upon completing the host institution registration process, the student is considered a student of that institution, and therefore shall conform to all applicable rules, regulations, and policies of the host institution and not commit any acts that may be harmful to the reputation of either institution (NTU and the host institution). If the student commits any violations, then he/she shall be subject to disciplinary action by both institutions; for example, a report of the violation will be made to the Student Disciplinary Committee at NTU.
2. During the exchange period, the student must maintain close contact with the Department and be mindful of his/her own safety.
3. During the exchange period, the student has the responsibility and obligation to help promote the Department and actively participate in study abroad related activities at the host institution, such as study abroad expos and information sessions.
4. The student must submit a reflection paper within two months following the conclusion of the exchange program and consent to its use. The Department has the right to use it in various exchange program related promotional activities, and no additional consent is required from the student.
5. Upon returning to Taiwan and before graduation, the student shall help advise students who are planning to study abroad and provide related advice and necessary information.
